GOP PLATFORM COMPLETED BY POLICY MAKERS

Framers Pledge Civil Rights to All, Internationalism, Military Plan.

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 — Republican policy makers today completed a 1948 platform pledging international cooperation, military machine and civil rights for all.

The platform framers finally laid the text before the country after nearly a week of writing, wrangling and revising.

The objective is to win as many votes as possible in November. The Democrats will write a platform next month for the same purpose.

Chairman Henry Cabot Lodge of the GOP resolutions committee will offer the 2,400-word document—shortest in the party's history—to the national convention tomorrow for approval. Conventions usually accept platforms without a fuss. Republican national Chairman Carroll Reece today predicted harmonious action.

The platform, adopted by the exhausted resolutions committee at 12:10 a. m. today, and made public later in the morning, was described by Lodge as broad enough for any of the main Republican presidential hopefuls to stand upon.

Israel Among Topics

It deals with scores of highly controversial topics, among them public housing, Israel, prices and anti-Communist legislation.

The foreign policy plank—dedicated to the preservation of a free America in a free world of free men and plumping hard for "collective security against aggression"—bears the unmistakable marks of Michigan's Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, a possible dark-horse contender for the presidential nomination.

It pledges aid to other peace-loving countries on a basis of self help (as in the present European recovery plan). But the platform writers inserted these words: Within the prudent limits of our own economic welfare."

The plank closely follows Vandenberg's ideas on strengthening the united nations.

The plank says "we propose" maintaining the Army, Navy and Air Force to a degree which will insure our national security. Also: The achievement of effective unity in the department of national defense. "Sustained effective action to get sufficient manpower for the service," recognizing the American principle that every citizen has an obligation of service to his country.

No Mention of Draft Law

There was no mention, by name, of either the draft bill passed by congress just before it adjourned last Sunday morning, or of universal military training, which Mr. Truman asked in vain.

On civil rights the platform is not far different from President Truman's program which caused such an outcry from southern Democrats.

The Republicans called for prompt legislation to outlaw lynching and to abolish the poll tax. They opposed the idea of racial segregation in the armed forces.

The term "fair employment practice commission" was knocked out of a preliminary draft, but the finished version favors enactment of such federal legislation as may be necessary to maintain the right of every individual to work and advance in life regardless of race or religion.

On another controversial domestic subject there was a battle in committee over public housing—and the public housing advocates won.

The plank finally written recommends federal aid to the states for local slum clearance and low-rental housing programs" bu

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER O June 22—The Ohio Presbyterian synod will extend its restoration fund drive for another year in an effort to raise the additional $72,983 needed to meet the $2,126,218 goal.

Annual sessions of the synod now are being held here.

Reelected by the women's synodical yesterday were Mrs. Ray Cave of Columbus, second vice president. Mrs. Ralph McGrew of Mansfield, third vice president; Mrs. Earl D. McKinney of Springfield, recording secretary and Mrs. J. E. Gebby of Dayton, treasurer. Earlier, Rev. E. W. Ledwick of Seville was elected moderator.

Stassen Now Counted Out By Some of Own Backers

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 22—Harold E. Stassen was being counted out of the Republican presidential contest today by some of his own supporters.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's position remained good. Sen. Robert A. Taft was the next best bet. Balloting is only 36 hours away.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg's name was not yet under way but could come up with a whoop in a deadlock.

Stassen supporters said it was too early to talk about a deal. But they indicated a trade was possible. It would put Mr. Stassen on the ticket for vice president with either Vandenberg or Taft—Vandenberg much preferred.

Other Stassenites denied talk of a deal especially with Sen. Taft.

The first two sessions of the Republican national convention yesterday lacked the whoop-em-up enthusiasm traditional with party pow wows, and oratory and not much enthusiasm was carded for today.

The show may pick up this evening with speeches by Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. and former President Herbert Hoover. Rep. Martin is a long shot possibility to win the nomination. Mr. Hoover was not treated too kindly when he lived at the White House but nowadays he gets a great hand from the party.

Nominating speeches begin Wednesday evening and will last far into the night. Somewhere in the small hours of Thursday the convention must decide whether to take a test ballot or two or to postpone the whole thing until Thursday afternoon or evening.

Gov. Dewey wants continuous balloting until a candidate is chosen. Two test ballots followed by a recess would give the dealers and traders and stop-Dewey delegates an opportunity to gang up on the New Yorker.

An avalanche of letters reached delegates and alternates today attacking Gov. Dewey as a Republican new dealer whose election would wreck the party. But he remains top man on first ballot ratings with Sen. Taft a solid and threatening second. With Mr. Stassen less of a threat than before the convention met it is beginning to look like a two-man contest.

Vandenberg Demonstration Brief

Sen. Vandenberg appeared for the first time last night in convention hall. Michigan delegates tried to start a demonstration but it fizzled.

The delegates are too far from the nominating speeches and the voting to blow off steam. The senator preceded his appearance with a statement that boiled down to this:

I'll take it if it comes my way.

Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan, who led the pop fly demonstration for Sen. Vandenberg last night is leading the Vandenberg cheering section. Gov. Sigler says the draft Vandenberg movement is building up and adds "I am quite optimistic."

There is a lot of Vandenberg sentiment here but his rooters would like the senator to make a more aggressive move for the nomination. It is hard to whip up enthusiasm for a man who just sits there waiting for something good to happen to him.

Duff Against Dewey

Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania remains a bulwark of the stop-Dewey movement. He wants Sen. Vandenberg and would take Sen. Taft and says frankly he won't go along with Gov. Dewey if the time came to break away from Gov. Earl Warren, the candidate of that state who has a scattered western following.

Publisher Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune added a powerful voice to the Taft chorus here. He said he had no second choice and proposed a Taft-Stassen ticket.

Gov. Dwight Green of Illinois keynoted the GOP last night on a victory theme. He spoke as temporary chairman. He will hand the gavel tonight to Permanent Chairman Joe Martin.

PLAN OF LEWIS GETS LEGAL OK

Pension Payments to Miners Obtain Acceptance of Goldsborough.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—Justice T. Alan Goldsborough today gave John L. Lewis a legal go-ahead for his $100 monthly pension plan for miners.

Goldsborough dismissed a plea of Ezra Van Horn, trustee for operators on the United Mine Workers' welfare fund, for a court order to block payment of pensions for retired miners.

The judge said he found the proposal for payments "reasonable and proper."

For Lewis it marked his first triumph on three trips into Judge Goldsborough's court. Twice before he had been there only to be fined for contempt of court for failure to end walkouts in obedience to Goldsborough orders.

It was a dispute over pensions that brought about the costly six week strike last spring.

The proposed system of payments was evolved by Lewis and Sen. H. Styles Bridges (R-NH). Bridges became neutral member of the welfare board and aided with Lewis in setting up the plan.

Van Horn refused to approve the payments and went into court to ask that it be declared illegal.

Goldsborough said the plan, which was only tentative and may be changed as experience dictates, does not violate either the 1947 coal work contract, made last July, or the Taft-Hartley labor act.

The plan provides $100 a month for UMW members who are 62 years of age or older and who have worked in the pits for at least 20 years.

Lewis and Bridges agreed to set aside $5,000,000 of the $45,000,000 fund to start the pension payments.

The fund has been accumulated through a 10 cents a ton royalty levy on each ton of coal mined. This was provided in the 1947 contract.

The three major points on which Goldsborough upheld Lewis were:

(1) That Van Horn, as the operators' trustee does not necessarily have to approve pension payments. He ruled the $45,000,000 welfare fund is a "beneficial fund" and subject to rules applying to public charities. That means only a majority vote of trustees is needed to pay out money.

(2) That members of the UMW who are no longer employed by the operators who signed the 1947 agreement are also eligible for the $100 monthly pensions. He saw no conflict with the Taft-Hartley act in that ruling.

(3) That members of the UMW working for other employers than those who signed the contract also are eligible.

Taft Camp Throws Full Force After Delegates

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 22—The Taft-for-President camp today threw every man and woman it could muster into a campaign to line up votes before balloting begins at the Republican convention.

Approximately 200 persons, most of them public officials, business men and political smart boys from Ohio were turned loose against the state delegations not nailed down for Dewey.

Senator Robert A. Taft feels that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is his principal rival for the presidential nomination.

The Ohio missionaries were carrying the Taft gospel even into the Dewey-pledged delegations hopeful of gaining a few converts.

Virtually every top Republican state official in Ohio has checked into the Taft headquarters for instructions on whom to see in what state delegation and the best technique for wooing him.

State Officials on Hand

They include State Treasurer Don H. Ebright, Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins, Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel, Liquor Director Dale Dunlion, Chairman Harry Miller of the state utilities commission and James Meckel, chief of the state division of securities.

Numerous business men and newspaper publishers and editors sympathetic to the Taft cause are lending their talents.

Among them are Herschel Atkinson, executive vice president of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce; Don Finkbeiner, Toledo attorney and former president of the Ohio State Bar association; Attorney Robert Burton of Columbus, law partner of Senator John W. Bricker; Roy D. Moore of the Brush-Moore newspapers and Robert R. Williams, executive vice president of the Ohio State Restaurant association.

Young women on the headquarters staff are carrying the Taft message to acquaintances in other delegations.

Build Up Reserve

Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Taft campaign manager, and Senator Bricker, chairman of the Ohio delegation, are seeking to build up a reserve of delegates who can be added to the Taft total after the first ballot.

In view of this plan to snowball Taft's vote total on later ballots Brown is declining to make public the number of new votes he might be promised.

He continues to stand by his estimate of 380 to 312 Taft votes on the first ballot.

Taft estimates that four to seven ballots will be required before any candidate gets the 548 votes needed to win the nomination.

The Taft forces suffered a setback yesterday when the convention credentials committee seated a Georgia delegation sympathetic to Dewey. The Ohioans' managers had predicted the seating of another delegation, 11 of whose 16 members are favorable to Taft.

They declined to comment on this development, but indicated they would ask the credentials committee to reconsider its ac-

Plant Ordered Out of Kenton

NLRB Says Factory Must Move or Hire Akron Workers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—In the first ruling of its kind the national labor relations board today ordered Howard Rome either to return his toy factory to Akron or to hire 28 Akron employes at Kenton.

The United Rubber Cork Linoleum and Plastic Workers (CIO) accused him of moving to Kenton to avoid a scheduled bargaining conference. The board in its unprecedented decision, agreed, and found him, the Rome Products Co. and the Kenton Plastics Corp. guilty of unfair labor practices.

Ruled Lockout

The removal, the union contended, constituted an illegal lockout.

"The single most important factor behind the move to Kenton was not economic as Rome claimed but instead was the unlawful and improper objective of avoiding the necessity of dealing with the union," the board said in its order.

"Rome made repeated threats to move rather than deal with an affiliated union, in addition he evidenced an attitude of bitter opposition to the union in numerous other coercive and illegal acts and statements.

Clare Luce Explains Why Vandenberg Doesn't Fight For Nomination by GOP

By CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

PHILADELPHIA June 22—Does Arthur Vandenberg, the tough, hard-slugging—and silent—senator from Michigan, really want the nomination? Isn't he being a little too shrewd when he refuses to step into the ring, fighting?

After all, he was the fellow who pointed out a year ago that nobody was ever "drafted" without conspiring for his own nomination.

Is he in such a conspiracy now? All the political wiseacres say Vandenberg does want to be president. That is one piece of irrefutable political evidence—he has opened headquarters. And then there is the unqualified statement of Michigan's shrewd Governor Sigler who said that Vandenberg is available and punch-lined it with "I know what I'm talking about."

Clare B. Luce

Then what is keeping Vandenberg himself from making a clear unequivocal statement about his availability?

The question is irritating, confusing and, above all, saddening many of the senator's most ardent supporters. They feel it is the one thing that would release the great potential Vandenberg strength that lurks in every delegation.

Submits the Answer

As a longtime admirer and friend of Vandenberg I am prepared to submit that the answer to the enigma of Vandenberg's silence lies in the character of the man himself. It is Vandenberg's style to keep to his pledged word and to hold to a consistent course of conduct.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was fond of talking of his Holland heritage. And the late president's worst enemies never have denied him a great measure of courage. But when it comes to real "Dutch" Arthur Vandenburg makes Mr. Roosevelt look like a weather vane. For Vandenberg cannot be swayed to abandon a position that he believes to be both right and consistent.

Vandenberg has not sought the nomination because he felt that to do so would have endangered the bi-partisan conduct of our foreign policy. He does not seek it now because he believes that the other candidates would feel that even so belated a move would smack of opportunism and expediency and that personal ambition had motivated his search for a sound American foreign policy from the beginning.

One Purpose

Vandenberg's one increasing purpose since he became chairman of the foreign relations committee in the senate has been the development and clarification of policies that would show the whole world that America had accepted the leadership destiny has thrust upon her with prudence, courage, common sense and consistency.

Vandenberg had learned the lesson of the Roosevelt regime. He knows that it is idle for a statesman to prate of "one world" if he cannot even bring about unity in one nation. But national unity, in turn rests to a large measure on party unity. Vandenberg also has learned the lesson of Willkie.

Unity in the nation and the party, was the only climate in which the Vandenberg policies could be brought to a successful fruition. In getting unified national and party support for his policies, he had to have the help of Ohio's able and powerful Senator Taft, popular, vigorous Harold Stassen, and, above all, of Tom Dewey—because of John Foster Dulles. And he also needed the powerful help of Speaker of the House Joe Martin. History shows he got that help. No one can say whether he would have gotten it if he had sought it while seeking his own nomination for the presidency. Arthur Vandenberg never thought he could.

As he makes a dramatic entrance into the convention hall, he

Ohioan Carries On Determined Delegate Hunt

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Writer

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 22—The Republicans, whooping it up for victory in November, got their platform all but finished today but still were in a fog of uncertainty over who is to take his stand on it as their choice for president.

Many of the delegates who straggled into this big hall for the second day's sessions had been up half the night or more in who-will-it-be conferences.

But from all reports, these meetings had served only to draw the lines tighter in the Dewey-Taft-Stassen struggle for the nomination.

The intensity of the delegate hunt was illustrated by the activity of Senator Robert A. Taft. Before the morning session of the convention, he conferred with the Missouri and Kansas delegations.

Awaiting him were conferences with the Wisconsin, Tennessee, Utah, New Jersey, Vermont, Iowa, Alabama, and Hawaii groups.

Nominating Speeches Tomorrow

The convention won't get around to nominating speeches until tomorrow. Balloting may begin tomorrow night, but possibly not until Thursday.

Herbert Brownell, one of Dewey's managers, told reporters it will be a "startling revelation" when the name of the delegate to nominate Dewey is announced. This presumably was meant to hint that it will be some leading GOP figure not yet publicly declared for Dewey.

California's big delegation met and reaffirmed a "do or die" stand for Gov. Earl Warren.

Senator William F. Knowland, Warren's convention manager, announced the stand to reporters. A newsman told him there were published reports he would attempt to swing California's 53 delegates to back a Vandenberg-Stassen ticket.

"There is not one word of truth or foundation in that rumor," Knowland said.

With this blitz whistling around them, the men who front for the hefty Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Illinois delegations pulled further back into their shells.

By unspoken consent they seemed to be agreed that—with the probable exception of an Illinois turn for Taft—there will be no big break for any of the top runners until a third roll call is reached sometime Thursday.

This development pleased Michigan delegates seeking to get Senator Arthur Vandenberg's candidacy off the ground.

It fit the plans of Gov. Earl Warren to keep California's 53 votes tucked in his pocket.

It gave renewed hope to such a possible nominee as House Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts. Martin takes over today the powerful post of the convention's permanent chairmanship.

But it made painful going for Dewey and Taft—expected pace setters on the first ballot—in their new desperate efforts to line up the strength needed to hit the magical 548-vote nominating total.

The convention concerned itself chiefly today with a platform that pledged continued American aid to peace-loving nations who help themselves.

Another plank promised that if Republicans get their coveted hold on the White House they will press strong measures to defeat Communism at home.

Session In Brief

The third session of the Republican national convention adjourned today at 12:27 p. m. (EST) until 8 p. m. (EST) tonight.

In the day's speech-making, the delegates heard Senator Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska assert that German recovery is the key to stopping communism.

As did Illinois' Gov. Dwight Green and Clare Boothe Luce before him, Wherry assailed the international agreements made by Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Truman.

The Nebraska senator said in a prepared manuscript that these "short-sighted agreements" today "stand as roadblocks in the path we now have determined as the true course to world peace."

Last Night's Speeches

In his keynoting address last night, Green trumpeted that only the Republicans can win back the peace he said the Democrats have lost.

Mrs. Luce, an open rooter for the Vandenberg candidacy, tabbed Mr. Truman as "a' gone goose." But she was glad, the former congresswoman said, that the country doesn't have "red Henry Wallace" in the White House instead.

The bristling speech by the former Connecticut house member brought the convention's first-day formalities to a close.

Ohio Women On Program

Rep. Frances P. Bolton of Ohio covered less ground in an address prepared for today's session. She appealed to women voters to use their power to help elect a Republican president.

Another speaker today was Senator Raymond Baldwin, Connecticut's favorite son, who pleaded with the delegates to take a strong stand against special privileges.

"This is our moral opportunity to open doors that are shut because of creed or race or color, to

TIME IS EXTENDED IN CITY PAY SUITS

Attorneys Given Another Week To Amend Petition.

Marion county common pleas Judge Leland Rutherford today gave attorneys W. P. Maloney and Carter M. Patton another week in which to file amended petitions in the $50,850 back pay suit brought against the city by members of the police and fire departments.

The court had given the plaintiffs until June 21 to amend their petitions after sustaining a city demurrer which contended the actions were not started within the time limit covered by the statute of limitations and that the plaintiffs' petitions failed to show a cause for action.

His order today gave plaintiffs until June 28 to plead further.

The cases have been before the court for nearly three years, the policemen's suit being filed by Patrolmen Clyde Hardin, Aug. 6, 1945, and the firemen's by R. M. Miller Oct. 24, 1946. Both filed on behalf of themselves and others similarly situated representing 14 policemen and 35 firemen. They seek back pay claiming they took cuts during the years 1933, 34, 36, 37 and 38.

Season Is Ended By King's Daughters Circle

The Circle of Light, King's Daughters, closed its season Monday evening, June 14, with a dinner party at Ringer's Inn. Twenty-five members and three associate members, Miss Goldus Bolander and Mrs. Leila Maag of Marion, and Mrs. Mildred Barry of Osborn, were present.

Installation of officers for the new year was conducted by Mrs. Helen Meredith. Taking office were Mrs. Doris Murphy, leader, Mrs. Mabel Uish, vice leader, Mrs. Louise Fogle, secretary, Mrs. Genevieve Hammond, assistant secretary, Mrs. Mabel Williams, treasurer, Mrs. Gertrude Garver, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Mildred Brooks, corresponding secretary.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Alice Dix, and plans were made to send a box of clothing and dried fruit to the Indians.

The program included three selections, "Evening Prayer," "Whispering Hope" and "The Is My Shepherd," by a quartet composed of Mrs. Maud Robinson, Mrs. Jeanette Garfield, Mrs. Jessie Ellery and Mrs. Betty Whysall, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mabel Williams, a one-act playlet, "The Finance Committee in 1904," by Mrs. Mabel Uish, Mrs. Adah Morgan and Mrs. Alma Maddox, and a piano solo by Mrs. Williams.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

Faith came over to where I was standing, and putting her hand on my arm, pulled on it.

"Suppose we sit down while we talk," she said with an air which would have done credit to her august grandmother, and I realized anew, as so many mothers have done, how closely small children study their parents, their grandparents and their older brothers and sisters, and how slavishly they imitate their mannerisms.

I try not to make the mistake of "talking down" to her, so I walked toward the chairs which evidently were her objective, and smiled at her, as I sat down.

"This is very nice," I told her, "but we mustn't waste any time. Daddy will be back in a minute, you know."

"I think it will be more than a minute," she said with an air of sapience that nearly upset my risibles.

"What makes you think that, Faith?" I asked.

"Because," she said, "I think Daddy and Granddad haven't finished up what they want to plan about that thing which is supposed to be hush-hush with Mr. 'K.', but which I'm sure is something else. Do you know what makes me think that?"

"No, what?" I said with the feeling of drifting out to sea on a raft.

"Because," she said, "when Dad and Granddad were talking, they had their backs to you, and you couldn't see their faces, and I think they forgot. I was little and could see where you couldn't. Anyway, I saw Daddy wink at Granddad, and then I saw Granddad wink back."

I was far out to sea by this time, and I put a question which I would have snatched back the next second if I could have caught it.

"When was that, Faith?" I asked.

"That was when Granddad said, 'You'll talk to him in code, of course,' and Daddy said, 'Oh, definitely.' And then Daddy winked, and Grandad winked back. They didn't laugh, they didn't even smile, but I'll bet they were laughing inside."

Her mimicry of her father's voice and that of her grandfather was so accurate that it jolted me back to realization of a job that had to be done quickly, and thoroughly. I leaned from my chair to the one she had drawn up facing me, and took her hands in mine.

"Faith, darling," I said, tenderly but firmly, "look at me."

She opened her limpid eyes wide, and I saw wariness in them.

"Oh, dear!" she said. "I suppose I've fallen over my big feet again."

"Faith!" I exclaimed, my attention switched from the main track, "wherever did you pick up an expression like that?"

Her eyes were suddenly vague, and I knew I had reached a dead end in that direction. I was sure that she knew where she had heard the expression, but I also was sure that she did not mean to pass along her knowledge.

"Oh, everybody says it," she said airily, and from experience, I knew that I would better lay stress upon the important thing I wished her to remember, and judiciously ignore the source of her atrocious language.

"Please don't say it again," I told her quickly. "But now you must listen to me, and not interrupt me again, for I have something most important to say to you."

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Effect of Iron on Anemia

Hemoglobin is the substance which gives the blood its coloring matter and also enables it to carry oxygen. Thus it is of enormous importance to our health and well-being. Iron is one of the chief constituents of hemoglobin and, for that reason, a certain amount of iron must be supplied, by the food that we eat

A person who does not get enough iron-containing foods is pretty sure to develop anemia with a decrease in the number of red cells and a marked drop in the amount of red coloring matter In these cases, treatment consists of giving iron-containing preparations until the red cells with their hemoglobin content, are restored to normal levels

Here several questions may arise how much iron should be used, what type of iron salt is best employed and whether or not the addition of liver extract and vitamin B-complex will speed up the recovery"

Some studies were carried out by Drs S O Schwartz and B E Armstrong, of Chicago, on 35 women who had anemia They found that when the iron preparations were administered for one or two months, there was a rapid recovery period During the next month the blood coloring level rose above normal, with a return to the normal level between the fourth and sixth months

About 250 mg of iron given in the form of iron and ammonium citrate or ferrous sulfate gave as good results as quantities almost double this amount There did not appear to be any difference in the response obtained, no matter what type of iron salt was employed Furthermore, the addition of the B-complex vitamin and liver extract did not seem to increase the action of the iron However it was definitely determined that in treating anemia, at least three months of administration of the iron-containing preparation was required to obtain the maximum effect

Anemia may be present without causing any particular symptoms other than perhaps some slight pallor of the skin, and fatigue Thus the patient's symptoms cannot be used as a guide as to how much improvement is occurring Examination of the blood by the physician is necessary to tell how the patient is progressing Of course there are many other causes of anemia besides lack of iron in the diet In these cases it is necessary to eliminate the cause before treatment with iron preparations can be successful

Questions and Answers

A Reader Will you please tell me something about breath-holding attacks Are they dangerous to the child"

Answer The treatment of breath-holding attacks consists in ignoring them entirely If the baby starts to hold his breath, merely walk away and leave him in the room until he stops If you persist in doing this two or three times, the attacks will soon cease Such attacks are not dangerous.

The Root of Government

A NATIONAL political convention is a text to the town meeting the best example of self-government in action This is especially true of conventions in which the outcome is uncertain as it clearly is in the Republican convention this year

The root of self-government is the privilege of decision While the symbol of this privilege is the Constitution which guarantees it the Constitution contains no sanction for political conventions They have been devised outside constitutional law as an outgrowth of the party system

Rules and regulations are determined by the delegates themselves The modus operandi as politician experts tirelessly point out is determined by the ingenuity of those who attend the conventions and the varying circumstances of politics No two conventions are exactly the same Some of the highest points in convention history were the result of improvisations

There is ample room in the convention system for emotion That's as it should be because emotion has at least as much to do with politics in a free country as logic Those who complain conventions sometimes seem to draw an emotion to the point of hysteria at the sacrifice of logic should bear in mind that logic fares even worse under dictatorship which professes to be able to plan both politics and the national economy on an entirely rational basis

One of the characteristics of conventions is that no one can be sure what happened and why until long afterward when the participants and observers have gained perspective That's why it's fun to attend them to read about them to listen to them Self-government in action is barely an orderly process It's never a cut-and-dried process which is the main reason why it's cherished by all Americans except the minority that prefers to tell people what to do not to let them make their own decisions

Libel on Dixie

SPEAKING at a commencement some weeks ago, James Byrnes a former secretary of state, r'ared up and let fly at Yankees who poke fun at southerners for saying "you all"

He said, "I have never heard any person in South Carolina, educated or uneducated, white or colored, use the phrase 'you all' except in the plural. Used in the plural it is good English There is nothing that irritates me more than to attend the theater in New York and hear an actor, who has never been south of the Potomac, impersonate a southerner and in addressing an individual say 'you all

Since then editorial commendation of Mr Byrnes has been echoing and re-echoing in the southern press like summer thunder in the Great Smokies

The dissent of the former supreme court justice is noted But somewhere sometime in the past there must have been a southerner who lapsed momentarily from grammatical rectitude The damage was done From then on, the Yankee's picture of the southerner was one who subsisted on grits and cornpone lived in a white portico'd mansion and ended every other sentence with 'you all'

The Fallacy of Federal Handouts

SENATOR MARTIN of Pennsylvania recently explained why the federal budget stays in the stratosphere He said 'About a year and a half ago the people placed the Republicans in control because the party was pledged to a platform calling for economy in government We made a good start and then what happened" The people who had voted for economy began to indicate in one way or another that they really didn't mean it

'Many of them told congress that they wanted government spending to pay for a great variety of benefits. The pressure groups swarmed into Washington from all directions representing business groups welfare and educational interests and even state and city governments"

Senator Martin's advice to the people is to learn that seemingly easy federal spending will have to be paid for tomorrow in sweat tears and even a share of the liberties and privileges that have belonged to Americans There is no such thing as 'free money The federal government must take away before it can give back

Did You Know

In September, 1947 the average worker in the average American manufacturing plant had take-home pay of $50.42—a record high at that time.

Expenditures of states in the United States for education varied from a high of 33.6 per cent of all state expenditures in Delaware to a low of .8 per cent in Iowa in 1946.

About two per cent of American homes which were wired for electricity had mechanical refrigerators in 1930 and about 72 per cent had them in 1945.

* * *

The phrase, "the Great White Way" as a synonym for Broadway, is supposed to have been coined in 1891 by O. J. Gude, an advertising man.

Scanning the Record

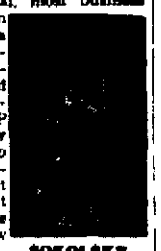
By George E. Sokolsky

The Problem of Shortage in Leadership.

SECRETARY of Defense Forrestal once said

A great deal of course has been done to improve our public administration in the past few decades But the actual accomplishments are still small by comparison with the clear challenge that now confronts our government to administer our national affairs with the highest degree of energy effectiveness and unity

Forrestal the President every top level official, most business men complain that there is a shortage of executive manpower in the United States The operations of ERP (ECA it is now called) had no easy time getting the right man for the right job Many are willing but few have the combination of knowledge integrity and energy Yet this country was built by men of energy and know how



SOKOLSKY

Really few have been killed in war Men actually live longer What has happened to our people that it is so difficult to find enough men who possess the qualities that make for energetic and competent action in essential tasks"

The causes are many but I shall have space in this article to mention only a few

1 It used to be that the most honored man in the United States was the go-getter—the man who could point to actual achievement Men like Andrew Carnegie John D Rockefeller, J P Morgan to describe one type, or Charles Eliot Arthur Twining Hadley David Starr Jordan to give another type—the creator, the builder the accomplisher—were held out to youth as examples for emulation

Modern Appraisals of Men

For decades our youth was told by their teachers and professors that such men as these were exploiters of other men Youth has come to believe that successful men simply had 'breaks" "What do they have that I don't have" Instead of the talkative politician the actor or actress the so-called celebrity the night club toreador who makes the peephole columns by outrageous conduct—these have become national heroes Ask your child what are the 10 names he knows best among the big men and women of the United States You will be shocked how few of them are constructors builders creators

2 Taxes have reduced incentive After all a man works best when he is stimulated by a desire to do something better for his family for his life and children He wants to give them a chance He wants to leave something to his children He wants to leave a 'name perhaps by endowing a college a hospital a foundation

A great manufacturer recently told me that many competent men are giving up top jobs of an executive and constructive nature to take on sales agencies because under the tax laws they can build a fortune selling the things which they used to manufacture

3 Our system of education has become unfocused It has no purpose and no objective either for the individual or for the nation The question where will I be at 40? is not being asked or answered among students Some young men even believe that it makes little difference They feel that a college degree if it does not land them a job in private enterprise will land them a job in government

Easiest Path Preferred

Risk daring high adventure play little part in their calculations That extra ounce of effort that zest for meeting challenges that hope to outdistance the next lad is even offensive It is not gentlemanly to push too hard to be aggressive to be forceful

Besides, if they find the right girl, she will work too Between them, they will have enough Children? Well they will have to be planned to come when they can be afforded If it turns out that man proposes and God disposes there are always parents and baby-sitters and succession Responsibility seems to be collective and therefore confused To feel the pride of heading a family of building a new generation—that is like any other form of building you take it on an FHA plan

Such an attitude toward life never built or maintained a country It is not that we have gone to the dogs it is that we are ripe for a moral resurrection And it should start in the kinde garten

Rules of the Game

By Raymond Moley

THIS will not be a convention of the Common Man, for Mr C M will have precious little directly to do with the proceedings which will give us our next President But the C M will hear and see a whale of a show as he sits comfortably before his radio or television or uncomfortably in the crowded galleries in Philadelphia or stands convivially with foot on rail in club or saloon

MOLEY

He is going to have in his daily paper plenty of food for figuring—lists of numbers indicating voting strength in state by state schedules of the meetings and so forth Lots of pencils will be worn out as balloting proceeds and intense talk will go on about the chances of this or that candidate

This column seeks to provide the reader with a few political rules—some of them well known others grossly neglected in most dope previews of the convention. These rules or principles of conduct may be useful in guessing ahead a bit or in understanding what is happening

First in politics natural laws prevail which are more important than deals commands or the strategy of leaders The politician delegate responds to the forces and trends that are best for him or his immediate party friends or his country, district or state

Session Absent

This being true it is hardly correct to call this a bossed convention A great majority of the delegates are uninstructed Only in a very few states are there central organizations or bosses strong enough to swing all or even a majority of the votes. The first and second ballot will show this with votes scattered among many candidates

Next it is most important for delegates to remain footloose so that they may move with the tide or what they think is the tide

The instinct of a politician-delegate will be to avoid a long convention A long stay in Philadelphia would be uncomfortable tiring expensive Also if a long deadlock develops the party will be injured by disunity

The basic fear of a politician-delegate is that of missing the boat Those who are left voting for a loser when the winner goes over face the prospect of four years of discrimination in all matters of favor or patronage

Viewed Locally

The delegate is not primarily concerned with the man who is nominated He thinks of his local ticket Hence, he asks himself whether this or that candidate will run far enough ahead of Truman to carry the local ticket

Congressmen who must run this fall think of that too A great many of them were elected by narrow margins They will profit most through a presidential candidate who will not just win but who will swing a big majority

Deadlocks and dark horses are not the rule they are the exception Only in 1876 1880 1888 1920 and 1940 have dark horses been nominated and the first three of these were brought forward by deep rifts in the party Such a rift is not now present

Neither Taft nor Dewey will have the decisive choice of swinging to one or the other or to a third candidate Their delegates will be sufficiently free to start moving long before the leaders can command them

The platform they say will be short That means it will be very general not specific Thus it may well be acceptable to all

Keynote speeches will be agreeable to all elements in the party

And so happy listening

Philadelphia Story

THE Republican party's first national convention, in 1856 was held in Philadelphia It was composed of delegates from all the northern states three territories and the District of Columbia Delaware Maryland Kentucky and Virginia Almost half of the delegates were from New York Pennsylvania and Ohio John C Fremont was nominated for the presidency but lost the election to James Buchanan

The 1948 Republican convention is scheduled to be held in Philadelphia Two of the party's Philadelphia nominees Grant and McKinley won election to the presidency Wendell Willkie the other one besides Fremont lost The Philadelphia average thus is below the party's average It has contested 23 national elections and won 14

The Republican party has made 17 presidential nominations It has renominated 6 of its selections Five of its nominees have been Ohioans three New Yorkers two each from California Illinois and Indiana and one each from Kansas Maine and Massachusetts

Seven of the 17 nominees were members of Congress two were members of a presidential cabinet three were state governors, two were professional soldiers two were private citizens and one was a member of the Supreme Court

Average age of the 11 when first nominated was 49.9 years The youngest was Dewey at 42 Oldest were Blaine Hughes and Harding each at 54 Fremont was 43 Grant 44 Theodore Roosevelt 46

He Asked for It

Not wishing to do anything contrary to the laws of etiquette a meticulous young man sent the following question to the editor of a Kansas newspaper Please tell me exactly when and where it is correct for a gentleman to lift or remove his hat"

Here is the reply he received from the newspaper editor "When mopping the brow, when taking a bath, when eating, when going to bed, when taking up a collection when having the hair trimmed when being shampooed, when standing on one's head."—Coronet,

GOP Needs Safe Majority

By Walter Lippmann

PHILADELPHIA

THOUGH the Republican convention is almost certainly choosing the next president, the leaders who will make the choice would be fooling themselves if they thought the Republican party has a dependable majority among the people

The majority now in sight for the November election is no doubt enough to win But it is not as yet the kind of majority which they can count upon holding together even for two years That is to say for the congressional and state elections of 1950 Much less for four years.

The Republican majority today is made up of the minority of habitual Republicans plus all the people who want a change who are tired of Truman and the 16 years of Democratic rule There is certainly no majority which believes in salvation by the Republicans — no majority which knows what a Republican administration would be like A majority of that sort can melt as fast as a cake of ice in the broiling sun

LIPPMANN

Mr Hoover was elected in 1928 by an electoral vote of 444 to 87 Two years later he had lost control of Congress Two years after that Roosevelt defeated him by 472 to 59 In the popular vote during those four years counting only the major party votes the Republican percentage fell from nearly 59 per cent to less than 41 per cent There must be at least a hundred Republican congressmen who could not survive such a shift in the popular vote

Therefore unless the candidates and leaders are not thinking much beyond the November election and the January inauguration their main concern will not be how to beat President Truman but how to make it reasonably certain that they have not only a big majority but a durable one

The practical question not only for the country and the world of course, but also for the professional politicians is not whether they win but how they win Their real problem is now to consolidate their provisional majority into a stable majority over a period of at least eight years

Slim Majority

Now it must be evident that to nominate Speaker Martin or Senator Bricker would mean that at the best they would have the smallest majority which any Republican could get. Large numbers of voters who are ready now to vote Republican would not vote at all Considerable numbers would return reluctantly to Truman It is not at all improbable that many would be so outraged that they would bolt, turn to the anti-Truman Democrats and resort to some desperate expedient like the drafting of Gen Eisenhower The Republicans, even if they had a majority in November would not only have a relatively small one but it would also be highly unreliable

Less acutely the same results would follow the nomination of Senator Taft While he would be personally acceptable to many who could never put up with Martin or Bricker it is quite certain that a Taft administration would have a very weak popular foundation

It might be that Taft who has character and brains and genuine public spirit could win over many who would begin by opposing him But though he might grow strong in office, his position at the outset would be weak

Considering the enormous difficulties which the incoming administration will have to meet it would be very serious to have as president a man who was not firmly and solidly established

Important

A ticket—for the vice presidency is of critical importance in the present situation—drawn from the Vandenberg-Dewey-Stassen-Warren-Duff-Lodge combination would obviously have the widest the most representative and therefore the most durable popular base This combination covers the whole Republican constituency—except the irreconcilable diehards—the total reactionaries and the new isolationists who are rather aggressive expansionists and imperialists

But it extends much further than that It reaches into the new generation of voters, of whom the great majority have been Roosevelt Democrats and into that very considerable mass of independents who had to vote for a third term and a fourth because the Martins and the Tabers left them no alternative

In this combination Vandenberg with Dewey or Stassen or Warren as his running mate would most certainly and convincingly sell differ the GOP private The vulnerable figure is Dewey That is because he may be tempted to get the nomination by making a deal which would leave the diehards with so much power in the new administration that later on he would have either to yield to them or to fight them But for that very serious contingency a strong case can be made that Dewey all in all, though not the most popular would be the most effective president of the lot

It is however a very big but Dewey if he got the nomination after refusing to compromise on the essentials of party control, would be a quite different president than a Dewey who got a synthetic nomination cracked together if not in a smoke-filled room, then on a spacious country estate

The Midgetized Home

Let's face it Home sweet home is becoming a pre-shrunk creation. It is being "midgetized so fast that even the barn and cracker house of yesteryear seem super projects by comparison We are getting back to the life of the Indian A wigwam a pony and some feathers were all they needed All we need are the wigwam, a flivver and some road maps.

PHILLIPS

The redman's home was just a place to sleep Modern man wants nothing added to the tepee but a video screen and a telephone table

Home comfort used to be regarded as meaning spare room, a huge parlor and living room, a kitchen like the Astor lobby a few rooms for the kids and rambling verandas everywhere Today home comfort is accepted as meaning a roof over a minimum distance between exits

A fine big bulging home with elaborate bay windows, piazzas, porticos and even captain's walks on the roof was once the keynote A home had to have an air of breadth and hospitality A man was known by the size of his entrance hall Our fathers put more lovely filigree work on a doghouse than a modern builder puts on a residence

It was once the central aim to make home sweet home a cross between a railroad depot a public library and a town hall It had to have plenty of spread Corridors and stairways were things of expansive beauty Yes Mom used to close off a half dozen rooms all winter and we didn't enter the parlor some years for more than six months (Remember those big solid sliding doors?) That was away back when there was no place like home away back before you could step on the starter and find a hundred places just as good, and much more fun

The time has come when we hardly bother to shut off the motor while in the house Home has become a quick collapsible tepee between tribal excursions

Women have decided not to devote their lives to scrubbing and dusting Men have decided there is more to life than a pair of slippers a pipe and a nice view from a bay window A house has become a sort of repair pit in the motor race for more diversion a roadside rest without the Neon lights and cash register

Young couples desire merely a shelter with the minimum labor Older folks are satisfied today with coziness and a short walk to answer the doorbell or put out the cat

In the words of the poet

Let me live in a box by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—

And I join them all in high

Irritating Trivialities

By TRUMAN TWILL

Minor irritations continue to be the major cause of frayed nerves in the United States, such as

Boxes of household necessities that say Press Here To Open and all you get out of it is a fingernail turned back

Contraptions that can be operated by any child according to the directions yet refuse to be operated—and you know what that makes you simpleton

Automobiles designed so a chowderhead who mistakenly believes he has the inalienable right to fiddle with what's under the hood can't even go through the motions any more because he can't get his hands on any vital parts

Workmen who have unmitigated gall to charge an honest man more for doing a few hours low skilled work than the honest man draws for being on the job a whole week at his own lowly task

Automobile drivers who still think after a quarter of a century of raucous failure that traffic problems can be solved by leaning on a horn

Public servants who take the attitude they're doing the public a favor by being on the payroll

Magazines that go out of their way to hide the numbers of pages in unlikely places so readers trying to find where the article is continued must waste time looking for a numeral

Woof gatherers who consistently try to make right hand turns in traffic from left-hand lanes

Reference books that madden a hurried hunter with the bland direction to see Vol XIV under Marshmallow Instead of telling him what he wants to know right then and there

Windbags who tie up party line telephones not just 10 minutes or 15 or 25 but 45 minutes

Visitors who barge in while the ballgame is being broadcast and don't have the common courtesy to excuse themselves and get off the premises until it's over

People who say I know you're busy and I won't stay long —then stay and stay and stay while the hands of the clock race toward quitting time

Shoelaces made of slippery material that can't be tied firmly enough to keep them from dangling a loose end underfoot

Clerks who go out of their way to make it obvious they are just too, too tired to give a whoop about the shoppers' unimportant desires;

Beautiful young girls who address Men in the Prime of Life as "Sir" instead of giving the old gaffers the benefit of a doubt

And weather that promises to be clear and warmer, then turns out to be rainy and colder.

CONVENTION

whip out the last vestige of under privilege and the last vestige of special privilege, Baldwin declared in his advance text

The platform which a committee headed by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr (Mass) whipped into final form in the early morning hours pledged a far-reaching civil rights program and opposed race segregation in the armed forces

But the all-important foreign policy plank was adopted by the 104-member resolutions committee only after some reported vigorous protests by Senator Brooks of Illinois Brooks has been critical of the European recovery program

Victory for Taft Group

Taft's followers won a victory when the committee wrote in a plank calling for government aids for slum clearance and low cost housing Taft lost his fight for such a program in the closing hours of congress

Taft's platform gain was offset by a more tangible victory for Dewey in a 26 to 24 vote by the credentials committee to seat a 16-vote Georgia delegation largely supporting the New Yorker for the nomination

Taft forces were hard put to explain this result after earlier predictions that they would put over their own delegation There was a possibility they might appeal the decision to the convention

But any such action would amount to an outright Dewey-Taft test on a side issue, with the loser bound to suffer a blow to his prestige

Despite continued talk of a possible Taft-Stassen combine, the Ohio senator's backers seemingly felt that they could not count on followers of the former Minnesota governor to side fully with them on any such test

There seemed to be little doubt that if Stassen can't make the hill for the presidential nomination, he would throw support to Taft rather than Dewey if the choice lay only between the two

Proposed by McCormick

The Taft-Stassen combine proposal was brought out into the open by Col Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune

In a bluntly worded statement, the publisher said he is for Taft and has no second choice He said Vandenberg "can't even carry Michigan" He predicted Dewey can't win more than the 12 states the New Yorker carried in his unsuccessful 1944 presidential campaign

Of Stassen as a possible vice presidential nominee, McCormick said

"Stassen is strong with the young people but mature people think he lacks maturity In 1900, McKinley was nominated for his prestige and Theodore Roosevelt for his personal popularity Therefore, it seems reasonable to nominate Taft and Stassen for the same reasons"

Stassen called it "a friendly statement." He said he is in the presidential race to stay But he didn't slam the door on the second place suggestion

Taft volunteered that he would be glad to "accept any vice presidential candidate the convention nominates"

Herbert E Brownell Dewey's campaign manager said he is "glad the Taft-Stassen ticket is out in the open at last"

Within the 56-vote Illinois delegation, of which McCormick is a member there was confusion But the gist of comment was that Taft's hold on the majority of the delegates may have been tightened once they get through voting for Green on the first roll call

The other favorite son states backed away, however from any second ballot break

FORD WAGE PLAN OPPOSED BY UNION

By The Associated Press

DETROIT June 22 Emil Mazey acting president of the CIO United Auto Workers, made it clear today the Ford Motor Company's proposal for an uneven wage boost was not acceptable to the union

The UAW objects to the Ford formula which would add 14 cents to the hourly pay of workers making more than $1.36 an hour and 11 cents to the wages of those earning less, Mazey said last night at Grand Rapids where he is attending a Michigan CIO convention.

John S Bugas, Ford industrial relations director who announced the offer yesterday had suggested it would erase many of the inequities in our present wage structure

However Mazey declared the proposal does not meet our requirements"

"The union will insist on a flat rate for all workers with adjustment of inequities," he added

of production in Kenton several of the Akron employes were hired In this group were no persons who had previously belonged to the union, although a very large majority of the Akron employes had been members of the union

Great Haste Cited

"Finally the move was contemplated in great haste and on the basis of a mere oral and apparently incomplete arrangement

"Rome not only concealed his intentions until the plant removal was an accomplished fact, but also refused, on request, to tell the union representative, on the day after the move, the name of the new company or the place at which operations were to be resumed The union was thus unlawfully deprived of the opportunity to bargain with Rome about the possible transfer of employes to the Kenton plant"

The board stated that at the time the union started organization Rome employed 40 persons and by the time he closed the plant in Akron on July 28, 1948, 28 employes remained

tion The committee voted 26 to 24 in favor of the pro-Dewey group

Taft Benefits

At the same time Taft profited when the committee seated an eight-member Mississippi delegation generally considered to be on his side

Meanwhile the Taft and Dewey field generals clashed in another contest—for the privilege of making the first nomination.

Each asked Arizona to yield its place at the head of the line to them The Alabama delegation, which ranked No. 1, previously had voted to pass. Arizona indicated it would not yield to either Ohio or New York

If Arkansas, third in line, refuses to yield, then would come California. And the California delegation, pledged to its Gov Earl Warren, likely would jump at the opportunity of placing him in nomination first.

A crowd estimated at 5,000 persons last night attended a reception for Senator and Mrs. Taft in the ballroom of the Benjamin Franklin hotel only where there's a need that can't be met by private enterprise, states or cities.

GOP PLATFORM

Similar to Rebuffed Plan

The plank is similar to the public housing provision in the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill, which Sen Robert A Taft of Ohio drove to passage in the senate but which met repeated rebuffs in the house

Here in brief is what the platform says about

Communists—It pledges enactment of such new legislation as may be necessary to expose the treasonable activities of Communists and defeat their objective of establishing here a Godless dictatorship controlled from abroad' There was no mention of the house-passed Mundt-Nixon bill which died in a senate pigeon-hole after stirring widespread controversy Gov Thomas E. Dewey and Harold E Stassen engaged in a public radio debate on the issue

Elections—It favors a change in the method of electing presidents in order to "more exactly reflect the popular vote"

Tidelands—It favors "restoration to the states of their historic rights to the tide and submerged lands, tributary waters, lakes, and streams."

Farm—"Farm prices should be supported on a just basis," and farm co-operatives should continue to be encouraged.

Labor—It pledges "continuing study to improve labor-management legislation in the light of experience and changing conditions."

Inflation—It charges that the Democrats by their policies have "deliberately encouraged higher prices," and promises to combat inflation by cutting government waste, stimulating production, trimming the public debt, and maintaining a sound currency.

The resolutions committee made some major changes in the version which had been prepared by a drafting subcommittee.

For example, the tentative draft favored federal aid to states for education The committee made it merely "We favor equality of educational opportunity for all and the promotion of education and educational facilities"

The tentative foreign aid plank said "we will implement with appropriations any commitment made by legislative enactment" The committee erased that sentence

Favors 3 New States

Among other things, the platform favors "eventual statehood" for Hawaii, Alaska, and Puerto Rico, urges development of Alaskan communications and resources favors self-government for the District of Columbia; proposes large improvements for the west, recommends equal rights for women, and so on.

EMPLOYMENT IN CITY DECLINES

Drop of 154 Revealed in Report of Marion OSES Office.

Material shortages continued to plague local industry during the last 60 days with a resulting decline in employment of approximately 154 workers according to the labor market report issued today by the Marion office of the Ohio State Employment Service

Fred B Scherff manager indicated the drop was less than three per cent of the industrial employment total however At the same time employment in the non manufacturing industries remained stable during the period

According to OSES records approximately 139 workers will be needed by the 34 surveyed industries during the next 30 to 60 days Only 35 workers will be needed in the manufacturing category One hundred and four will be needed in the non-manufacturing category primarily as a result of the demands of new industry which contributes to an increase of 78 in female employment From 200 to 300 construction workers will be needed in the area

Job Seekers Decline

Construction openings and railroad trackmen openings became available during the last 30 days and as a result the number of workers seeking employment through the Marion OSES dropped from 897 to 675 workers nearly 25 per cent Female job seekers decreased 11 per cent primarily as a result of the opportunities for female workers within the new establishment

If jobs were available in Marion, 1 000 male workers between the ages of 18 and 45 years of age and 1,000 female workers between the ages of 18 and 35 could be recruited from Marion and vicinity if suitable transportation could be arranged, Mr Scherff stated Many female workers who have withdrawn from the labor market in Marion as a result of the limited opportunities could be attracted back to the market if job opportunities became available Practically all have had factory experience in the temporary war industries formerly located in Marion.

Rates of Separation

Rate of separations per 100 workers continued to exceed the rate of accessions per 100 workers during the month of April, indicating declining employment Hiring has remained considerably below separations since December further illustrating the ebb in employment in industrial concerns

Weekly volume of claimants declined from 489 in April to 403 in May Mr Scherff said this was a result of available opportunities in the construction industry and the new industrial establishment recently located in Marion

COURT BACKS UNION RIGHT

U.S. Ruling Says Taft-Hartley Act Doesn't Ban Taking Election Sides.

WASHINGTON, June 22—The Taft-Hartley law does not bar a union newspaper from taking sides in a federal election. The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday.

But CIO union attempts to knock out two sections of the law failed. The court simply didn't pass on them.

It recessed until the summer after a grueling five hour opinion session. The justices will reconvene next October.

Unions were watching anxiously for the court's decision on

1. A requirement in the law on consecutive day of the law's requirement that union officials file oaths that they are non-Communists.

2. An outright ban on political spending of union funds.

In the course of failing to say yes or no on these parts of the law the court upheld another section of the act. This requires that unions file registration and financial statements.

The CIO maritime union came up with an appeal from a special three judge court ruling which held that the anti-Communist affidavit requirement is legal.

The supreme court refused to interfere with this ruling. This leaves the provision in effect.

Hails Court Decision

The CIO hailed the court's decision that a union newspaper can voice political opinions. The court has "sustained the right of labor to enjoy a free press," the CIO said in a statement.

The court in its ruling held that the CIO had not violated the Taft-Hartley ban against political spending quoted from co-author Robert A. Taft's explanation of the law in which the Ohio senator said congress "did not want to pass any legislation that would threaten interference with the privileges of speech or press or that would undertake to supercede the constitution."

The court pointed out that the line between newspapers engaged solely in publishing news and publications designed to "forward the interests of a particular group" is not clear. But it continued:

In the absence of definite statutory demarcation, the location of that line must await the full development of facts in individual cases."

Rules On Other Matters

In other actions as it wound up its 1948 spring term, the court:

Upheld, 5 to 4, the government's right to order now the deportation of enemy aliens arrested during the war. It also upheld a 150-year-old alien deportation law.

Dismissed by a 6 to 3 vote a complaint in case involving appeals of 129 other Germans who also have been ordered deported. The high court said they erroneously filed their cases against deportation in federal district court here. They are now in detention at Ellis Island.

Ruled 5 to 3 that the Alabama court did not violate due process of law when they refused a new hearing to a condemned Negro rapist. The man Samuel Taylor is slated for the electric chair before his scheduled execution for what he was convicted on an extorted confession.

INDUCT 2 MEMBERS AT LIONS MEETING

School Superintendent Guest Speaker.

Two new members were inducted into the Marion Lions club at the club weekly luncheon meeting Monday at Hotel Harding. L. L. Dickey superintendent of Marion public schools was guest speaker for the program taking on "Public schools."

Taken into the club in a ceremony in charge of Probate Judge Edward J. Ruzzo were Jack Taft and Harry Haberman. Judge Ruzzo was assisted by James Lytle who related facts concerning Lionism and by Walter Moore who gave the objectives of the club. Mr. Lytle stated that 21 countries throughout the world now have Lions clubs with a total of 6,500 clubs and that Ohio ranks sixth among the states in the number of clubs. The six objectives of the Lions club are as follows: (1) to create and foster a spirit of generous consideration (2) to promote the theory and practice of the principles of good government and good citizenship (3) to take an active interest in the civic, commercial, social and moral welfare of the community (4) to unite members in bonds of friendship, good fellowship and mutual understanding (5) to provide a forum for the full and free discussion of all matters of public interest (6) to encourage efficiency and promote high ethical standards.

Mr. Dickey praised the school system which is operated in Marion and the high standard of teaching and administrative force. He explained that since his arrival in Marion he has noticed an abundance of cooperation between the teachers and the children. Mr. Dickey listed nine "needs" which he thinks the public school system here should have. They are a kindergarten, smaller classes especially in the elementary grades, improvement in health program, field of hearing classes, an expanded art program, an auto-driving program, more working experience for children not academically inclined, building conditions remedied at Central Junior High school and a higher pay scale for teachers. Mr. Dickey was introduced by Dr. H. Ray Finney, president elect.

Harry Selter was elected first vice president to complete the slate of officers for the new year.

Cubs present were Max Secrist, Paul Kuhler, Lawson Manning, Bethel Hurst and Richard T. Marshall. Lion Melvin Myers of Mt. Gilead was a guest.

A lime spreading demonstration and clinic will be held June 29 on the Orla E. Barks and Sons farm on Route 4 south of Marion under the sponsorship of the Ohio Processed Limestone Association. O. E. Hamilton of the J. M. Hamilton and Sons Stone Co. announced today.

The Ohio State university agricultural extension service will set up an educational exhibit at the clinic, designed to encourage the use of limestone in agriculture and improve the quality of spreading.

Approximately 300 are expected to attend the demonstration including equipment dealers from various sections of Ohio and neighboring states.

The association will hold its annual banquet Monday night at the Harding Hotel with Earl Jones of Columbus, agricultural extension service director as speaker. W. W. Bolton of Barberton association secretary, W. H. Margraf of Columbus and Mr. Hamilton are on the committee handling arrangements for the annual meeting and demonstration, first to be held in Marion county by the limestone association.

Two Hurt, One Jailed In Traffic Accidents

Two accidents, one resulting possible serious injury to a passenger, and the other in a $100 fine and a 10-day sentence to the Morrow county jail were reported by the state highway patrol today.

Mrs. John T. Smith of Frankfort, Ky., suffered shock and possible chest and back injuries and an injured hip at 4:05 a. m. today when a car driven by her husband left the road about 12 miles west of here on route 30-S and struck a fence post. Patrolmen said Mr. Smith told them he fell asleep while driving. The car was demolished. Mr. Smith suffered lacerations of the forehead. Mrs. Smith was to be X-rayed at City hospital today. They were taken to the hospital in Ford's ambulance of LaRue.

Fred Montgomery of Cleveland, involved in a one-car accident yesterday about 3 p. m. on route 42 about a mile north of Cardington was not injured when the car left the road and struck a utility pole, several road markers and tore out several fence posts. Montgomery was confined in the Morrow county jail over night. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail on a plea of guilty to a charge of driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, today in mayor's court, Mt. Gilead.

SIX MISSIONARIES AT CONFERENCE

Come to Marion Service from Africa and West Indies.

Six missionaries from West Africa and Martinique were present for the opening session of a three-day missionary conference at the Maranatha Bible church Monday night. Good attendance at the first session was reported by the pastor, Rev. Earl L. Holliday. The meetings were prompted from other towns. The conference, held under auspices of Christian Missions, Inc., with headquarters in Patterson, N. J., will continue tonight and tomorrow night. Also here for the conference is Rev. Ernest Finkenbiner of Bellefontaine, secretary of the Christian Missions organization.

Rev. Finkenbiner, who was in charge, gave a Bible exposition on the book of Romans from a missionary point of view. Mrs. Otto Bechtel, missionary to Africa, gave a message on the work there, and Mr. Bechtel talked on the mission station of Christian Missions, Inc., in the interior of French West Africa on the Niger river. Their daughter, Betty, who is 3 years, "has only sunshine" in the native diet. The Bechtels have served in Africa 10 years. Miss Doris Gilbert and Miss Mildred Spicer also are to Martinique. Among other missionaries present are Miss Mary Gardner from Africa and Miss Elizabeth Odor who will go to Africa soon.

Tonight Miss Spicer and Miss Gilbert will tell of mission work in Martinique in the French West Indies and Mrs. Bechtel will relate experiences in the villages of West Africa. Rev. Finkenbiner will give a Bible message.

Christian Missions, Inc., organized 10 years ago, has 22 missionaries in West Africa. An annual service of this Bible conference is a missionary meeting and prayer service for missionaries and ministers at 10 a. m. The services tonight and tomorrow night are at 7:30, and will be open to the public.

CLAIRE LUCE

can face the GOP with a clear conscience and great pride. It has not only adopted his foreign program in the congress, but has incorporated it in the party platform. Who can tell himself that he has done more than any man in the party to restore Republican prestige in the eyes of the foreign nations and to bring back confidence in Republicanism at home.

There's utterly no use in telling Arthur Vandenberg that he's got to "declare" on the ground that delegates seldom will fight for a man who won't fight for himself. He knows that didn't he predict it months ago."

"And so he says, "I see no reason, no necessary reason, for changing the course I set for myself a year ago. My position remains unchanged."

"What will you do if they nominate you anyway?" There is nothing weary or ambiguous or confusing in the deep-throated answer.

"Didn't I just get through voting for a bill to draft American boys? And if they [illegible] had to go into battle for this country how would they go? They'd go in fighting and wouldn't quit this side of victory. That goes for any American who gets drafted, and it doesn't mean he wants it."

History plays funny tricks on men. Or men play funny tricks on history. The man in this convention who probably has done most to insure the victory of the Republican party in November may have paid the biggest price a politician can pay when he has to choose between putting his own interests first—or the nation's . . . the presidency!

SHADOW OF DRAFT SWELLS GUARD RANKS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 22—The ranks of the National Guard were reported swelling today with young men trying to get away from the shadow of the draft

National Guard headquarters reported a rush of new recruits Officials said they expect it to continue until President Truman signs the draft bill into law Those who are members of the guard or other active reserve groups at that time will be exempt

Mr Truman has until a week from today to sign the measure There was some speculation that the President himself a former National Guardsman might delay signing to let the guard's strength build up

After the draft becomes law the President may put it into effect within 90 days if the armed forces so recommend The first call is expected in September

A couple of the low-priced rails that did so well yesterday continued to improve though at a much slower rate Rockford and Marquette each gained fractions.

Also marked down were U S Steel, General Motors, Chrysler Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, International Paper Southern Pacific and Tennessee Century-Fox.

A trifle ahead were North American Co, Southern California Edison, American Smelting, and Consolidated Natural Gas.

Maybe You're Too Young...

NEW BRIDE? Then you probably don't remember how American housewives helped relieve the desperate shortage of fats and oils during the war:..simply by saving used fats. That shortage is still with us... still very serious, says the government. The one way you can help ease it today is by saving and turning in every drop of used fats.

Maybe You've Just Forgotten..

BEEN KEEPING HOUSE FOR YEARS? You may not realize that the grand job you did of saving fats during the war must still go on! Go back to your old salvage tricks again. Melt down meat trimmings. Skim gravies. You'll get lots more fat! Re-use it, if you wish. But even after that, there's always something left to save! Pays you cash, you know... the only kitchen waste product that does. And how cash helps on today's grocery bills!

USED FATS ARE STILL NEEDED — KEEP TURNING THEM IN!

Nick Alivojvodic to Take Hill Tonight Against Zanesville

Nick Alivojvodic will make his bid for victory No. 9 tonight when he takes the hill against the Zanesville Dodgers.

And the Cubs, idle yesterday as the Ohio-Indiana league took a day off, will be seeking their 25th victory. They have lost 29 and are in a sixth place tie with Lima, ten games behind the Muncie Reds.

Nick, who surrendered the Marion Cubs strike-out leadership to Ray Peet when the latter whiffed 11 Newark Yankees Saturday night to bring his total to 91, leads the club in games won, but also has lost more—seven—and stands third in percentage of games won behind Jim Edgar (4-2) and Peet (5-4).

Loses Latest Start

His latest start, at Newark last Thursday, was unsuccessful as the Yankees shelled him from the mound in the sixth and went on to win, 8 to 2. He has lost to the Dodgers twice.

But the South Chicago workhorse has had four days of rest and should be ready to go tonight.

Zanesville stands in fourth place in the Ohio-Indiana league, seven games behind the league-leading Muncie Reds and two games above the sixth-place Cubs.

They'll be here again Wednesday night, and then the mighty Muncie Reds will be here for two games Thursday and Friday. Richmond's Braves will be here for the weekend.

LEFT FIELDER BILL BOLDUC was still the Cubs' batting king at the end of the series with Newark Sunday. His .330 average led those who have been at bat over 100 times, and he has socked the most doubles, 21, and batted in the most runs, 41.

Catcher Stan King and second baseman Gene Bobzean have higher averages, .530 and .434, but haven't been at bat enough for their averages to settle.

Don Schmitt retained his home run leadership. He has socked six, all over the left field wall, and has pulled up his batting average to .280. Pete Schnepf leads in triples with seven to his credit. He stands third in the all-important RBI department, three behind Lee Bohlander with 28.

SET BETTING RECORD

By The Associated Press

LAUREL, Md., June 22—Harness racing with pari-mutuel betting got off to a record breaking start here last night. The fans poured $167,086 through the mutuel windows, Veterian harness officials said it set a new record for an inaugural of a half-mile track. The previous high, they reported, was about $150,000 bet when Maywood Park, Chicago, opened.

Early U. S. stamps were not perforated and the sheets had to be scissored apart.

ROBINSON BOUT IS POSTPONED AGAIN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22 — Champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson began another weight-reducing session today after his welterweight title bout with Bernard Docusen of New Orleans was postponed for a second time.

The fight, scheduled for Comiskey park last night, was reset for next Monday. Threatening rain and Robinson's failure to make the regulation 147 pound limit forced the delay. The match originally was scheduled for Thursday but rain forced postponement.

MILWAUKEE CUTS MINNEAPOLIS LEAD

By The Associated Press

With Indianapolis threatening to make the American Association race a "walk-away," Milwaukee has finally asserted itself and is letting its bats speak with authority.

The Brewers, now only 2½ games off the pace in second place, whipped up a 16 hit assault last night to batter four Minneapolis pitchers for a 14-4 triumph. Heinz Becker and Jim Gleason, a pair of veteran Brewer sluggers, drove in eight runs between them, each banging two hits, including homers.

Indianapolis refused to lose ground by edging the lowly Toledo Mudhens 5-4 although outhitting the brood 13 to 8. Les Fleming, who collected four hits, drove in the deciding run by singling home Jack Cassini in the eighth.

In the only other scheduled game, Kansas City beat third place St. Paul 16-2. The Blues blasted 10 hits, including Hank Bauer's two circuit blows. The Saints, losing the series two games to one, left 13 men stranded.

Tag Team Match Features Mat Card

A tag team match and two 30-minute affairs will bring together Eddie Williams, Rene La Belle, Irish McGee and Jack Terry for Armory action in the grouper's circle Thursday night, Lee Fishbaugh, wrestling promoter, announced. An 8:30 preliminary will open the fireworks.

La Belle and Terry will meet in one 30-minute struggle and Williams and McGee in the other before they team up for the tag event. Williams and La Belle will pair off for it, to oppose the combination of McGee and Terry.

BRAZLE BESTS SPAHN IN PITCHING DUEL

Cards Nick Leading Braves, 1-0, in Boston.

By The Associated Press

Alpha Brazle bested Warren Spahn in a brilliant southpaw pitching duel to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 1-0 victory over the league leading Braves in a night game in Boston. Brazle, who has pitched only one other complete game this season, thus became the first pitcher in the last 24 games to go the distance against the Braves. He allowed seven hits to six for Spahn.

The Braves, however maintained their game and a half margin on the runner-up Pittsburgh Pirates who were defeated by the Dodgers in a night game in Brooklyn 5-2.

Three consecutive doubles after two were out in the last half of the ninth inning drove in four runs and gave the Browns a 9-8 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in a night game in St. Louis.

MARGARET GUNTHER LEADS WOMEN'S WESTERN OPEN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22—Medalist Margaret Gunther, a pretty and consistant shooter from down Memphis way, today led the field of 32 qualifiers into the opening match play round of the 19th Women's Western open golf tourney.

Miss Gunther, Tennessee state champion, solved Skycrest's tricky 6,439 yard course for a two-over-par 76 yesterday. That was a stroke ahead of Babe Didrickson Zaharias, three time open winner, and Beverly Hanson of Fargo, N. D.

Also in the upper bracket were Mrs. Zaharias, who meets Carol Diringer, Tiffin, Ohio, (84); Peggy Kirk, Findlay, Ohio, who carried a qualifying 79 against Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., (85), and another 79 shooter, Fort Worth's Polly Riley, pitted against Mrs. F .W. Zimmerman, Chicago, (86).

Both Louis, Walcott Confident, But Champ Remains Favorite

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 22—Confidence radiated from both camps today as Champion Joe Louis and challenger Jersey Joe Walcott enjoyed a brief lull before their 15-round heavyweight title bout tomorrow night at Yankee stadium.

"I'll get him quick," was the said prediction of the Brown Bomber, who announced his 25th defense of his crown will be his last ring outing.

"He's ready," was the tag handlers put on Walcott, the amazing comebacker who almost snatched the title last December.

Odds favoring the champion remained firm at 5 to 13 although there was talk of a late flow of Walcott money that might reduce them slightly by ring time.

This is the shortest-priced choice Louis has been since the second bout with Max Schmeling ten years ago when he was held at 5-9.

The weatherman, meanwhile, gave the outdoor attraction a temporary blessing, promising a cloudy, humid day but no rain.

Ticket sales continued brisk but Promoter Mike Jacobs' hopes of a million dollar gate appeared certain to fall short. The Twentieth Century Sporting club is counting on a turnout of around 55,000, a gate of approximately $900,000. Television and radio receipts are extra.

Louis put in his final training licks at Pompton Lakes, N. J., yesterday, turned up with a black eye and announced afterwards, "I think I'm 50 or 75 per cent better than I was for the last fight."

The champion scaled 213 after his last drill but expects to hit between 214 and 215 when he weighs in Wednesday noon.

Jersey Joe, who finished tapering off Sunday, planned to break camp at Greenlorh N. J., today and move to New York to await the weigh-in. He will check in at around 195.

SAUER'S 20TH HOMER DEFEATS PHILS, 4-3

Equals Cincinnati Record for Right-Handed Sluggers.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 22 — Hank Sauer's war club and the Cincinnati Reds were singing another tune today.

After being limited to three hits in eight days, Sauer slammed his 20th homer of the season here last night and equalled the all-record for Cincinnati right-handed home run hitters. Frank McCormick and Ernie Lombardi were the previous right-handed batters to hit 20 homers in one season for the Reds.

And that 20th homer provided the victory margin as the Reds took a 4-3 victory from the Phillies to move back into the win column.

Ival Goodman holds the Reds' all time record for home runs in one season. A left-handed batter, Goodman hit 30.

Howard Fox, the only Red to win on the current eastern swing, again was credited with the victory. He was replaced in the seventh, however, by fireman Harry Gumbert when the Phils threatened to take over.

Grady Hatton walked and came in on Sauer's first inning double to open the scoring. The next two Red runs came after Sauer walked, Danny Litwhiler singled and Baby Young tripled them home in the fourth. Sauer's circuit blow came in the sixth.

Five hits in the seventh provided the three Philadelphia runs. Philly Manager Ben Chapman ran into trouble in the eighth when he argued with umpire Art Gore. Gore ordered Chapman off the field.

ST. MARY NO. 1 WINS 5TH GAME

Takes Undisputed Lead in Church League.

St. Mary No. 1 broke out front in the Church loop race last night, downing the hitherto unbeaten Epworth softball nine, 6-1, for their fifth straight triumph.

Myers homered in the first to give the Saints a 1-0 lead and a run in the fourth extended the edge over the Methodists, held scoreless until the sixth when Rea singled and Hackten doubles him home. Four hits, a walk, and an Epworth error gave St. Mary four runs in the last of the sixth.

In other Church league games, Trinity shutout St. Mary No. 2, 5-0, behind the one-hit pitching of John Putney. Forest Lawn poured it on First Church of the Brethren, 13-3, and Greenwood won over Oakland by forfeit.

Johnny Baldauf spoiled Putney's no-hitter by hitting safely in the fifth. The Trinity ace whiffed eight.

Forest Lawn's rout over F.C.B. gave them a second-place tie with Epworth Griffith paced the attack with a three-run homer in the second.

Tall Ohio Team To Take Floor Against Kentucky

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., June 22—It will be a tall team that represents Ohio scholastic basketball against Kentucky's schoolboy best at Bowling Green, Ky., Friday night and at Middletown, O., the next evening.

Paul Walker, the longstretched Middletown coach whose 1947 Middie quintet won the state championship, is grooming a squad of six-foot Buckeyes. Practice sessions began yesterday at Middletown.

Tallest of the Ohioans is Dick Retherford, 6'7" Newark center. Next is Salem's Bob Pogue 6'6" with Walker's own Shelby Linville touching the 6'5" mark.

The remainder of the squad George McChesney Middletown, 6'4" Norm Grevy, Hamilton Catholic, Al Steagman, Findlay 6'3", Jim Holsetin, Hamilton Catholic 6'2" Glen Hursey Glenford, 6'1" Dick Messner Ashland, and Rod Adkins, Middletown, 6'.

The all star team members are 1948 graduates, even as are members of the All-Ohio grid teams which meet in Canton in mid-August.

It will be interesting to see how well Hursey shapes up against the cream of the class A crop. The only class B player named, he was both an All-Ohio and an All-State tournament choice.

Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky State college will coach the Blue Grass team.

GALION GIRL STATER

GALION — Miss Eileen Tracht, a high school junior here, is the Scarbrough unit representative at Buckeye Girls State being held this week at Capital university, Columbus. The State is sponsored by the State auxiliary to the American Legion. Miss Tracht is a daughter of Mr and Mrs. Robert Tracht.

LEGION TO MEET SHELBY TOMORROW

Juniors To Play on Lincoln Diamond at 1:30.

Shelby, once conquered by the local Legion Junior nine, will come here for a game tomorrow to try to even the count. The battle is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. on the Lincoln park diamond.

Merle Daum will draw the starting assignment for the host team and Jim Seiter will receive, Coach Nelson Irvin said today. Clyde Sasdle and Dick Jones will be held in reserve in the event Daum gets into trouble.

Lineup changes will have Dick Wolfe moved to third, Dick Thomas to second and Ron Gorby to rightfield, he said. Dick Cramer will probably be picked to work the second game.

Shelby's Juniors will be out to avenge a 4-2 setback handed them a week ago Sunday by Ronald Larron. Marion shelled Shelby Swanger from the mound on that occasion in the second stanza but failed to touch his successor Wetz, in the remaining seven rounds. The Juniors suffered a 6-5 reverse at the hands of Galion Sunday when they gave up the winning run in the last of the ninth after holding a 5-up deadlock going into the frame.

A game with Leedon-at-London is scheduled for Saturdays as the team gets started on league contests.

New Three-Cent Stamp Issued by Postal Dept.

A new three-cent stamp commemorating 100 years of progress of American women was issued Saturday by the United States postoffice department through the Seneca Falls, N Y postoffice. Homer D Cole postmaster of the Marion postoffice, has announced that the issue will be available here after Aug 1.

The stamp arranged horizontally is printed in purple and will be issued in sheets of 50 subjects. The printing of 115 000 000 Progress of Women stamps has been authorized.

ZOLDAK TO START FOR INDIANS TODAY

Picked To Halt Yanks After 13-2 Loss.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 22 — Sad Sam Zoldak, the former St Louis Browns hurler who is expected to become "that other starting pitcher" for the Cleveland Indians, had a large job cut out for his curving left hand today.

It was Zoldak's assignment in his first starting chore for the league leaders to get back the challenging New York Yankees, who roared into the Sixth City last night with a 13-2 whitewashing of the Tribe before 48,237 Indian fans.

Allie Reynolds, former Cleveland pitcher won his fifth game in seven starts against his old mates and helped his own cause by batting in four runs on three singles. The Yankees' 18-hit assault gave Reynolds his eighth 1948 victory, against three losses.

The New Yorkers tallied a run without a hit in the first inning when rookie Gene Bearden walked two batters, who promptly pulled a double steal and another one run across on Joe D Maggio's infield out.

Eddie Robinson's single an infield out and a one-bagger by Walt Judnich tied the score in the second, but the roof caved in on Bearden in the fourth, giving Gene his second setback against six triumphs.

DiMaggio again was a key performer for the Yanks in the fourth, touching off a four-run blast with his 19th homer over the center field fence. Doubles by Steve Souchhock and Snuffy Stirnweiss, plus singles by Gus Niarhos and Reynolds, completed the game-winning rally by the Yanks.

The Indians never were in the game after the fourth, despite Robinson's eighth homer in the sixth.

Marion Man Catches 15-Pound Turtle

The piece de resistance at the Allen Brewer home at 1504 North Main street these days is turtle, and in case you are interested there is plenty of it—just 15 pounds undressed.

The turtle was a dry land catch made by Mr Brewer on the first day of "turtle season." Enroute home from Green Camp and riding atop a truck he spied the turtle making its way on a strip of land between two ponds of water. Calling to the driver to "stop, I see something" he soon had some choice eating practically in the bag.

At Republican Convention

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

PHILADELPHIA

THE big mystery today in the metropolis of immortal affection isn't who's going to be the Republican candidate for president.

To heck with mercy I can tell you in two words who it will be—a Republican. His name? His name right now is legion. Or almost legion.

The real mystery here is one among a national convention for the first time is:

"How can one small substitution of a centaur with only 148,000,000 people produce so many rugged men with the stamina to dare openly the ordeal of being a candidate for the presidency?"

HAL BOYLE

For the perils of Pauline are nothing to the trials and tribulations of a man who aspires to become the number one public servant of the American people.

If he wins one race and gets the nomination, what lies ahead? Another energy-sapping, spirit-wearying race with an equally eager beaver who won the other party's nomination.

But the first race looks to me like the hardest—the race to head the party's ticket. For in it a man is trying to do the hardest thing in the world—get applause from his own family in this case his political family. Family fights are the bitterest, civil wars the bloodiest.

WHAT DOES A MAN have to do to convince his political family that he should lead them? Ordinarily—plenty!

Leaving out the nerve-wearing months of preliminary travel and negotiation there is the week-long ordeal of the convention itself.

In one evening here Gov Thomas E Dewey shook hands with some 6 000 people at his official reception. Senator Robert A. Taft too, has a grip worn out from greeting well wishers. He also shook the trunk of the only honest-to-leather pachyderm gathered here for the quadrennial meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of the Elephant.

There is no such thing as real sleep for a candidate once the convention starts. He faces long hours of conference with his advisers, and dozens of interviews with potential supporters in the buttonholing, wheeling and dealing sessions to win delegates.

There isn't just one smoke-filled room at any close political convention. There are hundreds of them as democracy works its way to a decision by the democratic method of negotiation. Sometimes one smoke-filled room yields the wildfire of victory. Usually it doesn't.

A CANDIDATE in a hotly contested race may give his time, his heart, and wear two to three years off his normal life expectancy in a fight to gain the nomination and still be asked to give one more thing—promises. Promises to appoint this man to that post in exchange for delegate votes.

And does it cost money to try to win a nomination? It does. To give one example it cost Senator Taft and his supporters $174,000 alone to fight Harold Stas-

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

At Republican Convention

PHILADELPHIA

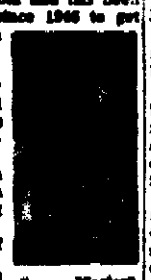
There are a flock of "pros" looking for the Republican nomination for president.

Take a look:

Thomas E. Dewey. He is governor of New York and was the GOP presidential candidate in 1944.

Harold E. Stassen. He was governor of Minnesota and has been trying actively since 1940 to get the nomination in 1948.

Robert A. Taft. He is senator from Ohio and leader of his party in the senate.



James Marlow

These men have all been around for a long time.

And each of them, looking to the presidential nomination for himself, has been doing the looking for a long time.

Take them one at a time—

Dewey: He was a 29-year-old when he was called into public service as assistant U. S. attorney of New York. It was there that he began his career as a prosecutor. He became a hero overnight.

That led him to the governorship. He has been an excellent administrator, surrounding himself with able men.

As a campaigner, he has hit hard in his speeches, depending a great deal on his addiness. He is 46.

TAFT: Age 58, of Cincinnati. He was the oldest of three children, two sons and one daughter of William Howard Taft, 26th president and later chief justice of the United States.

He wears glasses, he has a toothy smile, and he acts in the senate like a college professor.

He has moved from isolationism to a cautious endorsement of U. S. participation in world affairs.

Stassen: Forty-one, the descendant of Norwegian, German and Czech ancestors.

He is six feet, three inches tall, with a huge head—seven and seven-eighths hat.

He went to the University of Minnesota and its law school.

He got his law degree there and married his childhood sweetheart.

He drinks a lot of coffee, has been governor of Minnesota and, for the last two years has had almost no private life as he has criss-crossed the U. S. in quest for the Republican nomination.

Here, at the end of the trail, in spite of all his work he still doesn't have the kind of political support that political wiseacres consider necessary to put him across.

SENATOR ARTHUR H. VANDENBERG: He's 64. He lives in a modest frame house in Grand Rapids, Mich. He is the Republican's No. 1 man in foreign affairs.

Unlike Dewey, and Taft, and Stassen, he has not actively sought the nomination.

But he has let his friends build up a campaign for him, so effectively, that he is considered a possible alternative if Dewey, Stassen and Taft knock each other out.

Gov. Earl Warren: He's 57, lives in Oakland. He was born of Norwegian and Swedish parents.

Six feet tall, he weighs 215 pounds and is a pink-cheeked, blue-eyed westerner.

He is a lawyer by profession. Likes fishing.

He has few intimates in politics. He is a self-described progressive. He says congress must take progressive steps or be succeeded by a radical congress.

Joseph W. Martin: He is one of the dark horses—in the sense that he is not a red hot candidate. He is speaker of the house and representative from Massachusetts.

He is 63, a bachelor shy around women, an easy mixer among men. He neither smokes nor drinks. His whole life is politics.

His real life, besides running the house, is that of an insurance broker and municipal consultant.

In 1940 he ran Wendell Willkie's campaign but he did not enjoy it. His political career has been a history of campaigns.

PHILADELPHIA . . . We have had 30 speeches and 16 musical numbers and no candidate has yet surrendered. This sets a new endurance record for the course.

But the convention setting is very attractive . . . Lincoln looks down, Landon looks up and candidates look under the platform.

There were reports that a Henry Wallace man got in the hall disguised as a Kansas Republican but he had a pressed sunflower and a picture of Alf in his wallet . . . That cleared him.

Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate is watching the convention and the convention is watching him . . . This race is still anybody's.

Rumors of deals persist and wisps of smoke are leaking out the keyholes of several hotel rooms. We have an Indian analyzing the smoke for signals.

His first report reads "I'll raise you five". This may be a smokeographical error.

"STOP DEWEY" COALITION IN ACTION

REPUBLICANS VOTE ADOPTION OF PLATFORM

Pledges To Lead America Along Road of Global Cooperation.

By The Associated Press

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA June 23—The Republican convention today unanimously adopted a 1948 platform looking toward world cooperation for peace and the defeat of Communism at home

The statement of party principles calls for civil rights legislation—anti-lynch, anti-poll tax, non-segregation in the armed forces These measures, when proposed to congress by President Truman split the Democratic party apart

It accepts Mr Truman's challenge to put the record of the GOP-controlled congress into the thick of the presidential campaign.

Short But Pithy

Senator Henry C bot Lodge of Massachusetts resolutions committee chairman presented the 2 400-word document to the convention as a forthright, forward-looking guide to the American future ' He said it is the shortest platform in GOP annals but it says a mouthful "

On it Republicans hope to ride into the White House for the first time in 16 years

The platform was adopted by a shouted vote of acclamation Not a no was heard in the big hall and Chairman Joseph Martin declared the action unanimous.

Senator Vandenberg called the foreign plank "magnificent "

Governor Thomas E Dewey and Harold E Stassen said they hadn t had a chance to study the entire platform in detail but gave it their blessing Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he likes especially the public housing and civil rights planks.

Possible Special Session

The next big question is this' Will President Truman call the Republican - controlled congress into special session this summer with a message challenging the GOP lawmakers to carry out the party s platform promises"

The President has called this the 'second worst" congress in history He has the power to call it back anytime And some politicians think he may exercise that power

Clare Luce Calls Honest Foreign Policy Greatest Present Need of Nation

By CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Bernard M Baruch, America's elder statesman, has two theories for successful speechmaking that are broken by almost every campaign orator, including myself They are 'You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, so always deal gently with your opponent," and 'never talk more than 15 minutes, unless you have a point of vital importance—then cut your speech to 12 "

Mr Baruch believes — and I have no doubt that experience would vindicate his judgment—that only short speeches are ever given any audience s full attention and only very, very short speeches ever get printed.

Monday night, Governor Green of Illinois talked something over 15 minutes, a precedure wholly necessary in the keynoter of a great national convention that is certain to be picking the next president of the United States What made Governor Green's speech a document of enormous contemporary significance, (and even historical importance, is that it was far from being the "isolationist" argument that rumor had advertised

Rumor had it that Colonel Robert McCormick may have personally supervised its composition While Governor Green has in times past given every evidence of being able to write his own speeches, it would be nice to think that the colonel had written this one Then one could look forward with a certain pleasure to reading in the papers that the colonel and his lovely wife had invited Mr Winston Churchill to spend the summer holidays with them.

Governor Green's speech was indeed a notable one, precisely because it showed that the Republican party has returned to the progressive forward-marching, world-minded foreign policy of Theodore Roosevelt, John Hay and Elihu Root.

I am glad that Governor Green cut none of his talk But as the evening late in starting, grew later, I found it necessary to cut great chunks from mine—no doubt to the benefit of the speech and the audience, seen and unseen

However several newspapermen (New Dealers naturally) later reproached me for having cut a thrust or two and a lighthearted line [illegible] there through fear of public criticism.

The Deleted Portions

These are those portions, deleted for the want of time

"American foreign policy must first of all recover its honesty Yes, simple honesty which has been drained away by 16 years of internal discord, foreign war and the lies of war. We Republicans have prided ourselves on our practicality, and justly so But I saw we have contributed and must contribute more than practicality to the conduct of our foreign affairs, and that more is honesty—honesty with foreign countries and with the American people.

"The Democrats became dishonest in an attempt to be 'realistic Where has this landed us" Let me briefly review the record Mistrusting the American people, the Democratic administration kept its policies secret even when those policies were right Harry Hopkins' diaries, and edited by Robert Sherwood, reveal the deception that was practiced on the people in 1941. In that year we had a 'common-law alliance' with Great Britain. British staff officers came to Washington for military talks, but they wore mufti and their purposes were disguised. Our Navy convoyed British ships, but the people were told we were merely patrolling. The Democrat who records this deception, Robert Sherwood, justifies it in the following words 'In all probability no great damage would have been done had the details of these plans fallen into the hands of the Germans and the Japanese, whereas, had they fallen into the hands of congress and the press American preparation for war might have been well-nigh wrecked.'

Calls It Ironic

"Mr Sherwood calls this 'ironic' It is more than ironic when an administration calling itself democratic sees nothing wrong in telling lies to the people for what it conceives to be their own good. It is dishonesty compounded by cynicism.

"History shows now that back in '39, administration circles privately though lend-lease would lead to war Congress was told it was a peace measure

"History shows now that in '41 commitments were made to Mr Churchill at the Atlantic conference Then, the government denied them.

"History shows now that in November of '41, our Navy while escorting British ships, was in a shooting war against German subs the White House denied it.

"And history shows that the State department felt our demands on Japan would provoke her into an attack It told us that these demands were a sound basis of peace in the Orient.

"The pay-off to such an extra-constitutional foreign policy was Pearl Harbor "

There are many long-time Democrats who claim that they wouldn't vote for Mr. Truman, (repeat Mr. Truman) even if he were alive.

ALLIES REJECT SOVIET ORDER ON CURRENCY

Announce Their Own Mark To Be Used in Western Sectors of Berlin.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 23 — The three western allies rejected today a Soviet order for issuance of a Russian-controlled currency for all Berlin and announced that their own new Deutschemark would be used in the city's western sectors.

The Americans, British and French said they were making Berlin a two-currency city rather than submit 'o an arbitrary violation of four-power agreements

Tension soared again in this local point of the east-west cold war

Swarm Berlin City Hall

Crowds of political demonstrators swarmed about Berlin's city hall and prevented legislators from entering the building to conduct an emergency debate on the currency reform The American-controlled German radio said the demonstration was staged by adherents of the Socialist Unity party which is Communist-led and Soviet-dominated

The western allies moved swiftly after the overnight announcement of Russian currency reform for the Soviet zone and Berlin

The three western commandants for the city ordered all banks and business institutions except food and drug stores closed A moratorium on debts was ordered

The Russian order for currency reform in Berlin, announced early this morning, "violates the rules of four-power government," the western power proclamation said

City Body Makes Move

"The three western occupation powers therefore declare the order over currency reform in Berlin null and void," it said.

The Berlin magistrat, executive body of the city government, decided at a special meeting a short time before not to accept the Russian order for the entire city It ruled that an occupation commander can issue orders only for his own zone

The western proclamation said the western powers "can not submit to such arbitrary action which is in violation and total disregard of the actual quadripartite status of Berlin and which violates all agreements respecting the management of money and banking affairs of the city "

Charge Usurpation

The statement charged that the Soviet authorities were trying "to usurp the authority to dominate the economic affairs of Berlin"

Soviet reaction to the step by the western allies was not immediately apparent The changeover in currency ordered by the Russians was scheduled to start tomorrow The orders by the western allies were effective immediately

It was the first time in the history of Berlin's three-year occupation that one allied power had openly countermanded the order of another

MINE WORKERS' BAN DISMISSED

Goldsborough Takes Back Order Restraining Workers from Leaving Jobs.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 23—Justice T Alan Goldsborough dismissed today his court order banning the United Mine workers from leaving their jobs

Goldsborough acted on a motion by the justice department.

When H. Graham Morison, assistant attorney general, offered the motion the justice commented that the matter in effect had been disposed of yesterday.

Goldsborough referred to his decision upholding John L. Lewis' plan to pay retired miners a $100 monthly pension.

The court order against a strike was issued by Goldsborough April 21 to end a walkout resulting from dispute over operation of the pension fund.

Justice Dept Explains

Goldsborough issued it after he had fined Lewis and the UMW for contempt of court for failure to obey a temporary order by Federal Judge Mathew F. McGuire banning a strike

Since this order stemmed from a pension fund dispute in which Goldsborough yesterday upheld Lewis' payment plan, the justice department took the position the order would have no effect in halting a work stoppage that might arise over a contract talk deadlock

The miners and operators now are engaged in bargaining for a new wage agreement to place one expiring June 30.

The talks were resumed last night The operators have not yet accepted Goldsborough's pension fund ruling. Lewis has insisted that they do so

If the mine owners agree to go along, this will mark a long step toward possible successful negotiations to prevent a strike in the soft coal pits next month.

Await Van Horn Decision

President Truman's inquiry board expected to get a unanimous decision on the point from Ellis Van Horn, trustee representing the operators on the board administering the disputed $65,000,000 welfare fund.

GOP Delegates Applaud Ex-President; Attacks Russian "Tyrants."

PHILADELPHIA, June 23 — Herbert Hoover's sizzling attack on Russian "tyrants" and Speaker Martin's defense of the 80th congress featured the second night of wildly applauded oratory at the Republican national convention.

The only living former president took out after Soviet leaders in an appeal to his party to lead the interlaced battle against Communism's spread and for an enduring world peace

The world crisis, he said, is "deeper than some may think "

Hoover was given an enthusiastic 14-minute welcoming ovation by the convention delegates and the crowd

Martin, presiding officer of the house of representatives, leaped to the defense of the Republican controlled congress which President Truman has branded the "second worst" in history

The Massachusetts lawmaker—himself a darkhorse contender for the presidential nomination—said he is "proud" of the record written on Capitol hill in the last year and one-half

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey today declared for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the Republican presidential nomination. He indicated substantial Dewey support from New Jersey would be cast on the second ballot.

By The Associated Press

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 23—Senator Arthur H Vandenberg gave an okay today for his name to go formally before the Republican presidential nominationg convention, and leaders of spreading "stop Dewey" coalition immediately sought to enlist his backers.

Senator Robert A Taft, spearheading the "stop Dewey" moves with Harold E Stassen, told reporters he and Stassen have invited Governors Kim Sigler of Michigan and Earl Warren of California to an afternoon conference. Sigler heads the Michigan delegation booming Vandenberg for the nomination.

As Taft and Stassen outlined the situation in separate news conferences, their aim is this:

▶First, to convince Dewey and the convention that the New York governor cannot be nominated.

▶Second, to let the convention delegates decide without pressure among the other presidential hopefuls.

Taft and Stassen had conferred together just before their meetings with reporters. Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania sat in on the conference.

Duff is leading an anti-Dewey faction in the big Pennsylvania delegation. That group is to caucus tonight and Duff said "we will have a candidate" to oppose the efforts to line up the delegation for Dewey.

Stassen told reporters there is "great resentment" among the delegates over the attempt to swing the Pennsylvania delegates to Dewey. Senator Edward Martin withdrew yesterday at Pennsylvania's favorite son candidate and plumped for Dewey Stassen called this the "Dewey-Grundy deal" The reference was to Joe Grundy, long time Republican political power in Pennsylvania.

Want "Open Convention"

Stassen also said the aim of the stop-Dewey forces is to get an "open convention"—meaning one where the delegates would make their decisions on the convention floor.

Both Stassen and Taft professed to believe Dewey is stopped.

Taft predicted that Dewey will not have as many as 450 votes on the second ballot, and he added

"I think the second will be his highest."

It will take 548 votes to win the nomination

The Ohioan said he believes his total will begin to climb from the second ballot on and that he will be nominated on about the fourth or fifth ballot.

He said

"I think Governor Dewey has got to be nominated on the second ballot or not at all, and I don't believe that he will be nominated on the second "

Explains Conference

Taft said the series of conferences he has been holding with other candidates has two purposes. The first, he added, is to make sure that every delegation will be able to carry out its original plan without being subjected to what he called a Dewey "blitz."

He said the second purpose is to find out whether there is any possibility of the coalition agreeing on some one candidate. He said there had been no agreement on that point, but that it would be discussed further at this afternoon's session

Asked whether he believes the conferees would emerge from the next session with a dark-horse candidate, Taft replied,

"I don't think so"

Taft announced that one of those who will second his nomination will be a delegate from Dewey's own New York He refused to disclose the name of the delegate

For the first time in the big hall here, Vandenberg banners put in an appearance A truck drove up with a load of them soon after Sigler announced he had the Michigan senator's consent to put his name before the convention.

Vandenberg stuck by his stand that he is not actively seeking the nomination. But Gov Kim Sigler of Michigan said he had obtained the senator's consent for him to put up his name

Dewey Beset from Missouri

Dewey's drive got another push this time from Missouri. Senator James P. Kem, chairman of the Missouri delegation, issued this announcement "I have decided to support Governor Dewey. I look forward to his nomination on an early ballot. I believe he will be the next president of the United States."

Even before Kem's announcement, an Associated Press check indicated Dewey would get 35 of Missouri's 36 votes on the first ballot with others split among three or four candidates.

Asked if he was nominated Vandenberg in the belief Vandenberg can win or as a gesture of respect, Sigler replied, "If I did honestly believe there was no hope of winning I would not nominate him."

Sigler made the announcement after Vandenberg had put in his first appearance at the Michigan headquarters.

These workers for the nomination for Vandenberg have been discouraged by his aloof attitude and the senator made an apologetic little speech.

Hold to His Course

"I know I am a problem child for you," he told the Michigan group, "but I set my course a year ago and must steer it to the finish."

He said a year ago that he would not seek the nomination, but would not refuse it if it were offered.

The Taft-Stassen moves to head off Dewey kept their leaders in an almost continuous round of conferences. The principals themselves were shooting.

Taft and Stassen first met shortly last night. This morning, Taft told reporters "I rather expect I will see him (Stassen) again today, but it is still a little indefinite."

When questioned by reporters, Taft refused to discuss what had transpired at his talks last night with Stassen and Gov. Earl Warren, of California. Taft met personally with Stassen and talked with Warren by telephone.

These strategy conferences and maneuvering went forward while the delegates assembled in this big hall for the morning session of the convention's third day.

The big stage was the scene of long speeches. Balloting will probably not begin until tomorrow although that was still definitely settled. It may begin tonight.

Staff Opposes Dewey

Working with the Taft-Stassen forces in the "stop Dewey" campaign was Gov. Duff of Pennsylvania.

Duff leads one faction of the split Pennsylvania delegation
